WHEREVER you have linoleum, conglom or oilcloth in your home, varnish it with Valspar.
You will be delighted with the result—The Valspar will not only brighten it up, but will make it last a great deal longer because it will take much of the surface wear and absolutely prevent the penetration of moisture.

COLONEL CHRISTIAN IS SPEAKER FOR OCCASION

When Relief Corps and Cooper
Post Present Flag.

IT IS RECEIVED BY
WESLEY SUNDAY-SCHOOL

Colonel Christian in His Address.
Deals with the Church
in the War.

The Woman's Relief Corps and Cooper Post, No. 117, G. A. R., presented the Wesley M. E. Sunday-school and church an American flag Sunday morning at the close of the Sunday-school hour.

Quite a number of the members of the relief corps were in attendance and Mrs. G. W. Williams presided. The presentation speech was made by Colonel George H. Christian.

The program was opened with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," after which Dr. J. D. Darling presented Mrs. Williams, who gave a talk on the flag. She then presented Colonel Christian, who gave an address on "The Church in the War," and then presented the flag in the name of the Relief Corps and the Cooper post.

Dr. Darling responded briefly with thanks from the school and church and Mrs. Williams spoke a few moments on the significance of the flag.
The program was closed with the singing of "America."

The last service for the conference
year at the Wesley church was held Sunday evening. The Epworth league will hold a social Tuesday evening at which time the young ladies will put on the entertainment.

Colonel Christian's Address.

Colonel Christian in his address
said:
"I am here this bright and beautiful Sabbath morning for a dual purpose and I do not wish you to assume that I intend to presach two sermons encroaching
upon the time of Dr. Darling for his morning service.
I can say to you however,
that I agreed with Dr. Darling
that in case I did consume his time,
that I would in exchange give him
some time for the new church edifice that soon will be in process of erection.

"I appear before you in an official capacity as patriotic instructor of Cooper Post, G. A. R., of Marion.
I recognize, however, that Wesley church needs but little instruction in patriotism. I know something of your history during the World's
war. I have seen your service flag with its constellation of stars, and alas, the sorrow of it some of them in gold. You are a component element of that great denomination known as the Methodist Episcopal church of the world and I feel that I may now take this opportunity to say to you some things that I have never heard said in this city before any congregation in regard to the share that Methodism had in the civil war. We were a village then, and yet the Methodist church
was powerful and strong in number and it gave its sons unparagonably
to the great conflict for the salvation of the Republic. There was General James H. Godman, a great pillar of the church whose home was a center of Methodist hospital and the abiding place of the followers of Wesley. He fell on the slope of Fredericksburg seriously wounded
and within sight of the home of Mary, the mother of Washington.
And there was William Gurley I know of no one with whom to compare him. He was strong in the faith, beloved by our entire citizenship. He fell at Chancellorsville and lay mortally wounded upon that field, and like the soldier of Agi-gors, was surrounded by his friends.
He gave first to his comrades his thanks
and farewell; second he sent word to his church confirming his strong faith in the Christianity that had characterized his life and then with a fond farewell to a comrade to his mother in her far away Marion home. There were other sacrifices including a number of well known Methodists of that day. There were many others, but as most of them
are unknown to you, we will not add to the list. Several of them made the supreme sacrifice. We gave to the war 1750 soldiers and of these 275 met death in battle of from disease, and 450 were wounded. And your church gave to this tremendous total its full proportionate share.
"The Little Knox."

"A few words in regard to this banner of our republic when Peter Ross, of Philadelphia, sewed together the first flag of the great republic not yet fully established, she little knew she was formulating the banner for a nation of 105,000,000
of people grown to that vast extent
since the treaty of peace with Great Britain that recognized us as a republic free and independent. There is one singular character about our first banner of freedom to which I wish to call your attention. There are more symbols in the make-up of the American flag than there is in the flag of any other nation. If you seek for instance the tri-color of France, while that banner is one of great inspiration, you can not reason from its color and its folds such symbolism as is indicated in our own emblem of liberty. Briefly, then, our flag in its make-up has thirteen stripes representing the number of the patriotic original colonies that founded our great republic. The blue field with its constellation of stars, each star represents a state and in some cases an empire in extent and population altogether forming the nation as we know it. I speak of an empire in extent and population and refer you to the fact that the German empire with which we recently were in conflict, and happily now at peace,

could be dropped within the area of the state of Texas and have many square miles of excess territory. I speak of this simply to impress you
of the tremendous magnitude of resources of this nation in area
wealth and population.

"Another reflection: the United States army has adopted, or has discovered for adoption, that the colors red, white and blue are also symbolical. Red for courage, the white for liberty and blue for loyalty. So here you may read wonderfully well the basic foundation of our great land in the symbols of its beautiful banner. I sometimes wonder if any of us or any American citizen can fully appreciate our feeling towards our star spangled banner. Some years ago when passing through Frederick, Maryland, with our party of friends which included by the way the present president of the United States, we made a visit to their rather notable century. Not far from the entrance we noticed a beautiful shaft and attracted thereto read this inscription:
"In memory of Francis Scott
Key, author of The Star Spangled Banner." That simple legend was all that was necessary; and there we were in the presence of him, the author of our national anthem. I need not say that we all uncovered and stood reverently before the beautiful monument. I wish that all of you could enjoy that same view to that sacred and beautiful spot.

"And now I have a pleasant duty to perform. I here and now present to this church, congregation and Sabbath school through its pastor on behalf of the Woman's Relief Corps,
auxiliary to Cooper post of Marion,
this beautiful star banner. It measures not the affectionate interest, these noble women have in you and yours. They have through the long years since the war occupied a prominent position as a body of womanhood pledged to preserve
sacredly as far as lay in their power patriotism, and the inheritance that the sacrifices of the civil war brought to us all.

"With remarkable devotion to duty they have carried out their organization which in part is to instruct others in love for the flag; and along this line they have presented many standards of colors to many organizations in the land of their home. They wish you to cherish this banner; they wish you to have it before you in this church and when you remove as we hope some time

you may, to another and a larger one let this same token of their regard be still before you.
"Let it teach love of the republic.
let it teach a pledged loyalty and votion to our country; let it tea-
the symbols that we have heretofore described and let it be to you a
years and those who may come after you a little memento of the love
body of noble women have for you

J. H. Rawlings

OWNERSHIP OF ALL RAILWAYS

By Government. Aim of American Labor Federation.

EXECUTIVE BODY ISSUES STATEMENT

Effort To Be Made To Get Salaries of Railway Chiefs Reduced Till Better Times.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 20.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in session here today, announced two well-defined purposes in connection with the railroad problem as it affects organized labor. The council plans:

First, to further the movement to bring about public ownership and more democratic control of the railroads.

Second, to investigate railroad executives, with a view to "bringing pressure to bear" which would cut these salaries until other wage earners on railroads are paid sufficient to keep them in comfort and decency.

The council announced itself as behind any move the railroad labor organization may be ready to make.

An investigation of the use of funds deposited in banks and other savings institutions by working men will be made, it was said, to determine to what extent these funds are being used to finance concerns hostile to organized labor.

Investigation of the Kenyon rural-credit bill, as well as of every other financial agency affecting city workers and farmers, is planned.

The council is expected to adjourn Tuesday night, or Wednesday.

AN EXPLANATION

Columbus, Aug. 20.—Announcement that the recent action by the Interstate Commerce commission in suspending effectiveness of the twenty-per-cent freight rate reduction on shipments over the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad—Henry Ford's road—applies only to interstate traffic, is contained in a letter received here today by Attorney John Corne, counsel for the state utilities commission.

Officials of the commission expressed their pleasure over the contents of the letter, written by George R. McGinty, secretary of the Interstate Commerce commission, Washington. The letter discloses that the report that the federal commission's order of suspension applied to intrastate shipments, also, was incorrect.

POOR APPLIANCES ABOARD DIRIGIBLE

Safety Appliances Condemned by American Government.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—The giant dirigible, ZR-2, wrecked in England with a loss of forty-three lives, was equipped with safety appliances which had been condemned by the United States army air service, according to Major R. W. Schroeder, former chief test pilot of the air service and holder of the world's altitude record. Major Schroeder declared that the type of parachute with which the ZR-2 was equipped had been condemned by the United States government after a British air officer using one had been killed in a demonstration at Dayton, Ohio.

Altruism throughout the country, according to Major Schroeder, are wondering why the United States airman aboard ZR-2 were not equipped with the free type parachute, better known as the life pack, which had been adopted by the army and all military services. Schroeder believes most of the men would have been saved if they had worn this safety appliance.

Schroeder also declared it "surprising" that the weak parts of the ZR-2 were not developed by tests on the ground before the ship was permitted to fly.

Caught in Robbery

Newark, Aug. 20.—John Ford and Wilbur Ashcraft, this city, armed with revolvers, blackjacks and a wash boiler, were caught in the act of burglarizing Tony Variano's cellar last night, and transferring a large quantity of wine from Tony's casks into the wash boiler.

One Killed

London, Aug. 20.—One person was killed and many were wounded in an outbreak of intense rioting at Belfast this afternoon, said a Central News despatch from that city. Some streets were impassable owing to violent rifle and revolver firing. The situation is serious.

Revolver Firing

Belfast, Aug. 20.—There was an outbreak of revolver firing here, early today, but no casualties were reported.

BIG QUESTION IN MASQUERADE MURDER

Anbury Park, New Jersey, Aug. 20.—"Who struck the first blow?" was the dominating question in the "masquerade murder" investigation by the Jersey authorities today. "Mandrill" in Berlin, wealthy young Chilean Cornell student, held without bail as the alleged slayer of Cecil Arthur, reformed New Jersey jail, that he acted in self-defense when he struck the young society man in the grill of one of the smartest New Jersey resort hotels, early Saturday morning, causing Arthur to tumble backwards, his head crashing to the cement floor and sustaining a fatal fracture of the skull.

A GIGANTIC HIDE AND WOOL SWINDLE

Farmers Sell Their Product and Take Bad Checks.

Steubenville, W. Va., Aug. 20.—A gigantic wool and hide swindle, according to revelations made today by local police officials.

As a result of the alleged swindle, which is said to have been pulled off last week, a number of prominent farmers and dealers between Wheeling and Parkersburg lost several thousand dollars' worth of hides and wool.

Perpetrators of the swindle, apparently, have escaped.

The police refused to disclose the names of the victims. Secrecy surrounded the alleged operations until checks, written on Parkersburg bank and passed in payment for hides and wool, were returned, marked "no funds."

CRISINGER-PLOTNER REUNION ON SUNDAY

Norris Crisinger, of This City, Elected President.

The Crisinger-Plotner reunion was held Sunday with Mrs. Frank Swisher at the old Crisinger home, east, three miles north of Caledonia. There were 244 present, some being from Gallon, Bucyrus and Marion as well as the surrounding vicinity. Among those from a distance were Joseph Plotner and daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, of North Judson, Indiana.

NEW LIGHT THROWN ON HULL ACCIDENT

Defects in Great Dirigible Are Known to Officers.

London, Aug. 20.—New light was shed upon the ZR-2 disaster today, when it was revealed that the two main girders had been damaged in a trial flight before the fatal voyage. The Daily Express, today, printed an interview given out by Air Marshal Maitland, of the royal flying corps, August 12, which had never been published. Marshal Maitland—who lost his life on the ZR-2—admitted that troubles had occurred during ten-minute speed trials, adding: "The cause was an uneven pull upon the ship by the central motors. The engines did not synchronize."

NEWHOUSE-DILSAVER REUNION ON SATURDAY

Affair Is Held at Garfield Park.

The Newhouse-Dilnaver reunion was held Saturday at Garfield park with about 120 in attendance. A fine dinner was enjoyed. Other members of the Dilnaver family held a reunion at Richmond a few days ago and yesterday asked to be taken into the Newhouse-Dilnaver reunion. Their request was granted and the officers they had elected will hold over until the next reunion to be held at Richmond the last Saturday in August, 1922.

DECISION TOUCHING COMING CONFERENCE

Washington, Aug. 20.—Controversial questions will not be permitted to enter into the discussions of the conference on unemployment which President Harding is to call shortly. Secretary of Commerce Hoover announced today.

Grass Fire and Practice

The firemen of the "Grass" department of the city were assembled at the No. 1 fire station, this morning, for ladder practice and other forms of practice in the use of the duties of the men. At the same time the various equipment was tested to see that it was safe or in working order. While the practice was being held a grass fire started at McKinley park and the members of department No. 3 were sent to the scene and whipped out the blaze.

SMITH AND RILEY HEIRS GET SMITH ESTATE FUND

But Riley Heirs Are Awarded Riley Estate Fund.

JUDGE MOUSER HANDS DOWN HIS DECISION

Mrs. Emory E. Springer Sues for Divorce—Andrew J. Wynn Is Granted Divorce.

In the action of Fred W. Warner, as administrator, against Frank Riley, to determine the disposition of money as between the heirs of H. H. Riley and the heirs of Ralph Smith, the money coming from the estate of Grace Smith, daughter of Ralph Smith, who died without issue, Judge Mouser rendered his decision this morning. The judge held that the fund from the Riley estate reverts to the Riley heirs and the fund from the Smith estate was to be divided between the Smith heirs and the Riley heirs.

Grace Smith, the daughter of Ralph Smith, who died without issue and under age, was a granddaughter of H. H. Riley. She inherited $2,100 from her father and $2,000 from her grandfather. The controversy was over the question of whether the children of H. H. Riley were entitled to the fund from their father's estate or whether under the statute of descent should be divided to the heirs of H. H. Riley and Ralph Smith. Attorney Fred W. Warner was the guardian of Grace Smith.

Mrs. Emory E. Springer Sues. Nellie D. Springer filed a petition for a divorce from Emory E. Springer in the common pleas court this morning. The plaintiff states she was married to the defendant, September 4, 1912, and have two children, Clementine, aged seven years, and Dorothy, aged five years, both in the custody of the plaintiff. She alleges that for five years the defendant has not treated her or the children with respect, has failed to provide for them for three years and for the past two years has refused to take them in his automobile. The plaintiff alleges the defendant frequently remained away from home at nights. She asks for a divorce, custody of the children and temporary and permanent alimony.

Holt Divorced Suit Dismissed. The suit for divorce brought by Charles W. Holt against Orpha D. Holt was dismissed without record this morning by Judge Grant E. Mouser at the costs of the plaintiff.

Leave To Plead

In the case of the Stout Auto company against Mrs. J. C. Drake, on appeal to the common pleas court, the defendant was given leave to plead by September 3 by Judge Mouser.

A Real Estate Suit Settled

The suit of William J. Black against Samuel E. Morral for the recovery of real estate, has been settled in the common pleas court, and the case dismissed without record. The case was one where the latter had a part of a building on the property of the plaintiff.

Withheld Sixty Days

Andrew J. Wynn was granted a divorce from Susan E. Wynn by Judge Mouser this morning, the divorce being withheld for sixty days. Extreme cruelty and gross neglect were the grounds charged. The custody of the three minor children was awarded to Josephine Moore, a sister of the plaintiff, and the right of reasonable visitation was allowed the defendant.

Quash Motion Sustained

In the action of Lucy B. Grandt against the Columbus Mutual Life Insurance company, a motion to quash the service of summons was sustained by Judge Mouser, this morning.

Woolley-Jacobs Suit Dismissed

FITE MEMORIAL TEAM CHURCH LEAGUE WINNERS

Defeats Trinity Baptist, Five to Four, Saturday.

In an exciting and well-played game, Saturday afternoon, the Fite Memorial Sunday-school team battled its way to the championship of the Sunday-school league by defeating the Trinity Baptist team five to four, following a half-raising rally in the last half of the ninth. Trinity led in the scoring until the last half of the eighth when the Fite also tied the score. Trinity scored one run in the first half of the ninth and nothing but a rally could save the game and the championship. The Fite team, it seemed, possessed the necessary punch and victory was brought to it when Taylor crossed the plate in the last of the ninth after two men had been put out.

Trinity played another game with Greenwood following the championship battle, but due to the strenuous work during the first game the losers were worn down and Greenwood experienced little difficulty in taking them across by a large score.

FOX WIRED SHERIFF ABOUT WYNN "MURDER"

Says There Is Reward of $1,000. No Reward.

It develops that Edward C. Fox, of Cleveland, who wrote from Alton, Illinois, a letter to the Ohio State Journal, the letter to be forwarded to the prosecutor of Marion county, is the same Fox who several years ago got members of the Wynn family to assemble here to lay plans for claiming a big fortune over in England. When it was learned that Fox himself wanted to be sent to England to look after the fortune members of the clan departed and nothing was ever done about it.

In his letter Fox named a former Marion county man as the slayer of Albert Wynn, whose body was found near Prospect in August, 1919, and said he would be willing to testify before the grand jury that this man had told him he killed Wynn for revenge.

It also develops that some time ago Fox wired Sheriff Frank A. Washburn telling that county official practically the same information as contained in the letter. Fox also said that there was a $1,000 reward but an investigation failed to disclose that any reward had ever been offered, as the verdict was that Wynn had died a suicide.

FEDERAL JUDGE FLAYS ATTORNEY GUY WALKER

For His Attempt To Remove Whysall as Receiver.

WHYSALL ACTS UNDER COURT ORDERS, HE SAYS

Walker Asserts He Proceeds Under Misapprehension of Facts in Filing Action.

George Whysall, of Marion, receiver for the Springfield Terminal Railway & Power company, and his attorney, H. E. Burns, of Columbus, were completely vindicated by Judge John E. Sater in the federal court in Columbus, Saturday afternoon, when Attorney Guy M. Walker, representing W. P. Sturtevant, purchaser of the road, was scored in open court for having sought Mr. Whysall's removal.

The judge declared that the receiver had always acted under the orders of the court and that Walker's attack in seeking the receiver's removal was improper.

The result was that Walker asked and was granted the right to file a motion to ignore his previous motion because of his alleged "misapprehension of the facts."

Judge Sater ruled that Sturtevant, as the purchaser of the road, must make the first payment by next Saturday. The purchase price is $300,000 and Receiver Whysall has asked that the sum of $50,000 be paid Saturday.

Judge Sater's action in Columbus Saturday will prevent junking of the road, Receiver Whysall said today.

VOGUE FORETELLS MODE FOR MILADY THIS FALL

Yes, Skirts Will Be Longer, It Is Announced.

BUT CHOICE OF SEVERAL SILHOUETTES IS OFFERED

Flower-Crowned Coiffures, Civil War Fashion, To Be Revised. Long Earrings.

There is one clothes question that is at the moment uppermost in the minds of nice women out of town, says Vogue. "Are skirts really going to be longer?"

Not in years has a fashion verdict been admitted with so much interest.

The short skirt has been so popular—so comfortable and, to the most women, so becoming that quite naturally there is a reluctance to part with it and a horrible vision of trailing lengths that sweep the dust.

But it isn't so bad as all that—in fact, it isn't bad any way you look at it.

Longer, fringed, means eight inches off the ground for skirt clothes—not much chance for dust sweeping there—and two to four inches for the evening.

This change may seem sudden to some women, but like all of fashion's moves today it really is quite gradual, and truth to tell quite logical.

Vogue announced definitely as long ago as September, 1929, that skirts were growing longer, and has reported steadily ever since just how the all-powerful French dressmakers were compelling to accomplish this end with no abrupt shock to their customers.

"Every One Remembers—"

Every one remembers quite plainly the floating wisps of crepe de chine or chiffon which first became the fashion in the spring of 1928. Little did women know, when they accepted this vagary of fashion, just how much they were letting themselves in for. It is true that they noticed that these wisps hung below the skirt proper, but then it was still a short skirt. Then, somehow, there were more wisps—prattier things, and often they hung down further than they had at first—but, of course, the skirt panels which hung at either side proper was short. Then, all at once, panels which hung at either side joined the brigade of wisps—but, of course, as the dressmakers explained quite convincingly, you couldn't expect to have wisps of cloth—and since you'd become accustomed to wisps you just naturally had to have something—so why not panels? As the season advanced, these panels grew more definitely in character, and the eye saw them and lost sight of the once important skirt underneath until, today, last year's straight-line short skirt looks decidedly out of style and the lone skirt has very definitely arrived.

Not in importance to skirt lengths, comes the question of silhouettes. Time was when one said "the silhouette"—but those simple days when a single silhouette dominated the season's fashions have passed until today we have almost a half dozen from which to choose, each playing its very definite part in the scheme of things.

First, comes the suit, which due to Parisian enthusiasm, is perhaps more popular than in several seasons. This year, it is made, very likely, of kasha cloth, or broadcloth, called back into favor. Its coat may either be straight and bell-shaped or with a slightly curved waist-line and godets on the side but flat back and front. Its color is black, black combined with grey, very dark red, or the new Madeleine blue. Its skirt is nine inches from the ground.

The Coat-Dress. Using with it in popularity is the coat-dress, a real feature of the coming season, with its high collar of fur, lowered waist-line, defined by a gleaming steel belt and sometimes embroidered in cut steel beads, a long sleeve, its fuller and longer skirt. Its deep, rich color further ennobled by peasant embroidery.

Next comes the afternoon dress, offered in several interesting silhouettes, but best liked, perhaps in two. One is the real peasant spirit, with its characteristically long, loose biased lines, straight wide sleeves lowered waist-line, a cash loosely knotted about it, a full, but straight hanging skirt, uneven of hem, and with touches of embroidery reminiscent of southern European art in its colorful effect. The other is the straight silhouette which retains many of the features of last season's chemise dress, falling straight from the shoulder and simply belted with one of the new metal clasps. This is the most conservative silhouette, but the latest new in effect. Because of its a morally wearable quality, it is likely to be the most worn. Then, for example, comes the Greek silhouette a lovely thing of grace and charm—ideal for the dinner-table or the theater. In white or delicate colors and soft patterned fabrics, it is apt to be sleeveless and may be either straight and pleated or faultlessly draped. The Grande Graciosa in Paris, that last week of the races which is so smart both as to events and as to the mode, which it brings out, proved the power of this Greek gown as its white length trailed through the marvelous riot of color at the various evening affairs.

In that same week was introduced the silhouette to the Italian Renaissance, its decorative possibilities and untrilled straight lines here exemplified in gleaming brocades of velvets. Its style best suited to the evening.

Then, to top it all, as if this were not enough, we have the Spanish silhouette and the general Spanish influence on the mode. This has made necessary something to define the waist-line, something which may be called a corset, but is more correctly a kirtle.

In Evening Things. It, too, is seen at its best in evening things, for there it gains its proper background and has a setting which complements its delicate bouffant silhouette. A lovely thing of tulle and lace and flowers.

Flowers are one of the high lights of the mode. They will be used not only as girls and trimmings on our frocks, but they are to be very much featured in our coiffures, a charming custom that was often in fashion during the civil war, and again, in a less degree, when the bustle ruled the mode.

The head-dress is one of the most interesting ideas of the moment. Paris has been wearing it for a couple of seasons, and New York first took it seriously last winter. Its name is legion—it varies from the simplest laurel wreath to a Bacchanalian head-dress, a mass of jewels and color.

Naturally, earrings accompany it frequently, for even if we do not go so far as to show our ears, as Paris would have us do, at least we acknowledge them with earrings.

Fans, which have such possibilities of adding coquetry and charm, will be carried everywhere. Odd primitive designs in feathers as well as those of the delicate Louis Sixteenth period, with its fragile charm, vie with the vivid qualities of the Spanish type.

Hats for the Evening.

Hats for the evening, absolutely distinctive from the others, were seen at every restaurant in the Bois in Paris late the summer. Maria Guy was the originator of many of the becoming, large-brimmed, black hats, whose most lovely lines came from the drape of the lace, heavy and Spanish in pattern, which fell from the brim to the waist-line. For the daytime, small velvet toques, with high trimmings in the direct center, and very swathed turbans, in fuchsia tones of violet and red, are worn most effectively with the ever-present earrings.

Both are more noticeable than they have been in some seasons. Gleaming metal or gay, colored bolts in the daytime, soft ashes in the afternoon, and everything from flowers to jewels at night.

Sleeves, too, demand attention—always long for the street, sometimes narrow, sometimes wide, sometimes a slashed musketeer, thin for afternoon, and sure to be colorful. Sometimes half is of one fabric, half of another, again, part is embroidered in color.

Thus we have a season which offers a variety of silhouettes to suit every type and every occasion, and which introduces a longer skirt, but lengthened so subtly, so gracefully, and, withal, in so wide a variety of fashions, that one can but accept the verdict with thanks.

CHURCH SOCIETY

Twenty-Two Baptized.

Twenty-two persons from the Apostolic Holiness church and five from the Livingston mission were baptized Sunday afternoon in the Little Scioto river near the Hocking Valley bridge by Rev. J. F. Mallin, pastor of the Apostolic Holiness church. A large crowd of several hundred people witnessed the ceremony.

Rev. Mr. Mallin preached in the evening to a large congregation on the subject of "The Second Coming of Christ." Two persons went to the altar.

Rev. C. C. McNeil, of Athens, state superintendent, will preach at the church Wednesday night.

At Nazarene Church.

District Superintendent C. R. Clifton, of Columbus, preached Sunday morning and evening at the Nazarene church, with a large attendance at both services. "Man's Possible Relationship with God" was the subject of the morning sermon and in the evening Rev. Mr. Clifton delivered an evangelistic sermon on "The Great Man of Redemption." The Pleasant Township orchestra, composed of eighteen pieces, gave a program at the morning service.

Rev. and Mrs. Clifton were former residents of the county and have many friends here. They will return in a month when Rev. Mr. Clifton will assist in a home mission drive.

At First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Harry Bair, of the First Presbyterian church of Urbana, filled the pulpit of the local First Presbyterian church yesterday morning in the absence of Dr. Linus L. Strook. Dr. Strook, who is passing his vacation at Rye Beach, will return next Sunday and will occupy his pulpit.

LET US DO HONOR TO OUR FLAG.

Although the public is far better posted on flag etiquette now than it was a few years ago, the American legion has embarked on a commendable enterprise in undertaking to instruct its members and through them the public as to the honors, courtesies and ceremonies to which the American flag is entitled when placed on display.

Millions of American boys, serving in the army and navy, whose greatest attention is paid to flag etiquette, have brought the lesson home
 with them and passed it along to their fellow-citizens. There is still, however, a deplorable want of knowledge of some of the established practices relating to the colors, and the former service men composing the American legion are better able to supply the needed information than any one else.

Here are some of the courtesies that should be paid the flag. It should always be given the position of honor—at the front, at the highest elevation or at the right. When it is draped or crossed with other flags it should be on the right
 —the onlooker's right. When it is used as a decoration for a pulpit or speaker's rostrum nothing should be allowed to rest upon it except the Bible. It should never be used as a table cloth, as pillow or the like, and should not be twisted up to make rosettes or similar ornaments.
 Bunting should be used for such purposes.

As the flag is carried by in a parade men among the onlookers should remove their hats and hold them with the right hand against the left shoulder. Women should stand at attention.

The foregoing are among the most important points to be remembered. But there are others which it would be well also to learn. Some of these matters seem to be trivial, but there is a good reason for all of them. They are taken in most cases from the customs of the army and navy. When the flag is shown at half-mast, it should first be raised to the top of the pole and then lowered to the desired position; and when it is to be taken down it should first be raised again to the top of the staff. In raising it or lowering it its folds never should be permitted to touch the ground. When the flag is hung on a wall, the stary field should be on the onlooker's
 left, but when it is hung vertically the stary field should be on the onlooker's right.

These finer details of flag etiquette will not be learned quickly by the public. But if the legion persists in its campaign it will eventually be successful, and people will show as polite manners
 in the treatment of the flag as they do in less important matters of etiquette.

NOT ON THE "Q T"

DEPLORABLE FATE OF THE ZR-2.

How far we are from perfection of the airship none may say with assurance. Only a few days ago America read this enthusiastic appraisal of the ZR-2 by an American officer who was to travel in the giant dirigible from England to our shore: "She is undoubtedly the last word in modern airship construction." But there was an explosion, the great balloon caught fire and dropped into the River Humber.

Thus ends for a time the dream of establishing a new method of transit between the Old and the New worlds. But this disaster will prove but a temporary setback to the success of an undertaking upon which the determination of man is fixed. Whether or no the dirigible balloon ever shall be a practical commercial vehicle will be established by experience. That a journey in cloudland across the Atlantic is feasible has been proved. The ZR-2 having traveled for thirty-five hours, there is no reason to doubt that she could have gone on for 100 but for that unfor-seen happening. What was wrong will have to be searched out. Then repetition of the error
 will be avoided.

The cost in human life of this failure is deplorable. Usually we regard it fortunate if accident overtakes an innovation before it is given over to the serious business for which it was designed. But in this instance disaster on the trial trip imperiled twice as many lives as would have been lost had the explosion occurred on the transatlantic trip. Instead of only the American crew of twenty-one men, which was to pilot the airship westward, there were twenty-eight British aviators also in the craft.

All these were precious lives, for these men were of the pioneer type so useful in the ex-perimentations which lead to civilization's material advances. They were heroic adventurers in the cause of man, truly. Nor have they died in vain, for in consequence of this disaster much better dirigibles will have to be built.

Anyway, the duty placed on the army supplies
 we sold abroad will prevent us from losing out twice on them.

Much complaint is heard in all parts of the land over the prices of foodstuffs, but very little mention is heard of the many laws which have been passed looking to the sanitary preparation, handling and packing of what we consume. Fairness demands that this be not overlooked.

SEEMS BEYOND BELIEF.

The 1921 model of twilight finance developed through the revelations of federal agents under the auspices of the department of justice in the latest swindle in Chicago comes up to the highest modern specifications. Some of the plans are about as close to the old dream of trans-mutation of the ancient alchemists as the human mind is likely to get for some time.

Some of the details are simplicity itself, but the astounding manner in which they were worked off on experienced men in financial positions of supposed intellectual impregnability is bewildering. One hesitates to believe that one group of men could risk such transactions, which are on the line of the "kiting crook" who files
 between banks, keeping his resources in the air all the while. But one hesitates to believe that another group of men, whose duty it is to keep a close watch upon just such strategy in crookedness, could be outwitted by the mere promises of the safeguards they have thrown around their defenses.

The old dictum that you can't get something for nothing has been dealt a hard blow. Worse still, there is every indication that this group of "financiers," masked by reputations for respectability, have found the way to buy other men's property and compel the sellers to pay for what they have just sold. The scheme by which a bank in the Middle West is bought with certified checks, the institution's deposit certificates sold and the proceeds shipped to where the checks came from to meet their return, is almost an exact duplicate of petty maneuvers by crooks.
 One is curious to understand how veteran financiers were victimized by it.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By Dr. James Ball Naylor.]

SEEKING THE LIGHT.

The road is dark and rough—and yet
 A light is in the window set;
 And while that light holds out to burn,
 The willful wanderer may return.

There's a light in the window of prosperity.
 It is the lamp of reason.

It has a wick of common sense; it burns the oil of experience.

All, who will, may see that light; for it sheds
 its clear beams afar.

None is so blind that he may not see.
 But some are so stubborn that they will not see.

However, the editor of the free-trade New York Times has glimpsed the light; and he's on his way back to American protection and prosperity. And he blithely sings as he trudges along:

"Instead of imitating Russia or Germany or England in subsidies to labor, it is better to continue with the American plan of good wages,
 with the requirement that they shall be paid out of the product instead of capital."

"American plan of good wages."
 All right—what is it?

Adequate protection to American industries—
 that they may be enabled to hold the American markets and pay good wages.

See?
 Sure!

That's been the real American plan—for years and years; and that plan has always worked well—when its enemies would let it work
 well.

Wages to "be paid out of product."
 Just so!

But how can wages be paid out of product—
 unless products bring profits?

And how can profits be realized upon products unless these products can be marketed at a price above the cost of production?

And how can American goods be marketed at a price above the cost of production—unless low-priced, cheaply-produced foreign products are largely excluded from American markets?

We need protection in this country—if our laborers are to be employed, at good wages.

We've got to have protection in this country—
 if the standards of American living are not to be lowered.

Already, Germany is organizing her industrial and commercial forces for an onslaught upon America's markets.

She designs and plans to sell $500,000,000
 worth of her goods here during the coming year.

Bonded warehouses of New York are today
 full of foreign products, products made under the low-wage scales of Europe, products that can be sold in our markets cheaper than Americans can produce such goods.

And thousands of our factories, mills and shops are closed; and millions of our laborers
 are out of work.

What are we going to do in the case?

Up in Wisconsin, purchasers of soft drinks are

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE BABY DUCK

[BY HOWARD E. GARIS]
[Copyright 1931, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

"Good morning, Uncle Wiggly!" quacked Mrs. Wibblewobble, the duck lady, one day, as she waddled up to the hollow stump bungalow where the rabbit gentleman was sitting after his Saturday breakfast. "Do you expect to be at home tomorrow, Uncle Wiggly?"

"Why, yes, I guess so," answered Mr. Longears. "Are you coming over to stay with Nurse Jane and me?" he inquired.

"No," answered Mrs. Wibblewobble, "but Wibby, my husband that is, and I want to take a little trip into the country. We thought of taking Lulu, Alice and Jimmie with us, but there isn't room for my baby duck, and I don't want to leave her all alone. I was thinking if you or Nurse Jane—"

"Why, I'll be delighted to keep your little baby duck for you over Sunday," interrupted Uncle Wiggly. "Bring her right over!"

"I will," said Mrs. Wibblewobble, as she stepped away.

"Oh, Wiggly!" exclaimed Nurse Jane, coming out on the porch when the duck lady had gone. "Why did you offer to take care of the baby duck. You don't know what might happen!"

"Oh, I'm not worried," laughed the bunny gentleman. "You'll help me, Nurse Jane. Besides, since Baby Bunty went away our bungalow needs some one lively around to keep us from going to sleep."

"Well, I fancy the baby duck will be lively enough," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. Then along came Mrs. Wibblewobble.

"Here she is!" cried the mother of Lulu, Alice and Jimmie. "Here is my dear, sweet little Goopie!" and taking the cover off a basket, she brought out a dear little baby duck. Even Nurse Jane had to say:

"Isn't she cute!"

But along about the middle of the night Uncle Wiggly felt some one tickling him on his pink, twinkling nose, waking him up.

"Is that the Burglar Fox?" asked the bunny.

"Nopie, it's 'Just Goopie,'" quacked the little voice of the baby duck.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggly.

"Oh, I want to come in and sleep with you," begged Goopie, so Uncle Wiggly let her, thinking it would be better than having Nurse Jane awakened.

But a little later the bunny gentleman reached over in the bed and Goopie was gone!

"Oh, I hope the Woogie Wolf didn't come in and get her!" thought Uncle Wiggly.

"We think so," quacked Mother Wibblewobble. "The only thing you'll have to be careful about is that she gets out of her crib nights and goes quacking around the house."

"She does!" exclaimed Nurse Jane, thinking there wouldn't be much sleep with Goopie around.

"Oh, we'll look after her," promised Uncle Wiggly. So Goopie was left in the hollow stump bungalow while the rest of the Wibblewobble family went off visiting over Sunday. When Saturday night came, after Goopie had been allowed to splash around in the wash tub for her bath, she was put in her crib, which Mr. Wibblewobble had brought over to Uncle Wiggly's.

Then Nurse Jane and the rabbit gentleman went to sleep, after Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy had tucked Goopie under the sheets.

And then he heard a little voice in Nurse Jane's room saying:

"Could I come in and sleep with you, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy? Uncle Wig he makes such funny noises!"

"My goodness!" exclaimed the muskrat lady. "You do get up out of your crib and roam around, just as your mother said, don't you?"

"Yes, I guess I do!" quacked Goopie. "But I can sleep with you."

So she crawled in with Nurse Jane and after awhile Uncle Wiggly and the muskrat lady were sound asleep when, all of a sudden they heard a loud quacking and Goopie cried:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggly! Wake up quick! The old Skillery Scallery Alligator burglar is trying to get in! I saw him when I got up to crawl back in your bed, Uncle Wiggly, 'cause Nurse Jane's tail tickles me!"

And surely enough as the bunny gentleman jumped up and lighted a candle, there was the Skillery Scallery Alligator just coming in through a window. But when the light was glowing, that frightened him away and off he ran, not trying to steal any of the bunny's ears.

"Well, little Goopie, I'm glad you came to stay with us," said Nurse Jane when the bungalow was quiet again. "Even if you do roam around at night, you saved us from the Burglar Alligator."

Then Goopie went to sleep and didn't wake up until morning, which was a good thing for everybody.

We dare you to find out how much better Blue Devil in your bath will make you feel.

HANE BROTHERS ANNEX TENNIS DOUBLES TITLE

Defeating T. R. Allen and Edgar Thomas in Five.

THOMAS AND ALLEN LACK NECESSARY PUNCH

With Completion of Yesterday's Tennis Classic Game Contests Practically End.

[BY FRANK D. WEAVER.]

Yesterday afternoon, before a fair-sized crowd of spectators, John J. and Henry W. Hane annexed the doubles championship of the Marion tennis club by defeating T. R. Allen and Edgar Thomas in a five-set match with scores of 6-4, 6-7, 6-8, 6-2. The early stage of the match was marked by its meager playing, neither team showing up to the full measure of their ability. The Hanes, however, rushed the net in the initial set and killed many of their opponents' returns.

Thomas and Allen lacked the necessary punch to come across with any rally and, because of failure to get up to the net and to place the ball from the back line defense was theirs in the first two sets. In the third set the losing team picked up and played with the usual desperation of a team on the final set. Ease Up on Play.

The Hanes in turn eased up on their play and failure to get up to the net as usual lost many points to their opponents. The game score switched back and forth, but with the score down, the Allen-Thomas outfit fought with determination and with their game steadily increasing in quality, they came through to victory in the third set with a score of 7-5. The fourth set was the story of a splendid rally on the part of the losers. With the taking of the deuce set, Allen and Thomas took heart and playing a much better game than at any other time in the match and swept the Hanes off their feet with superior play.

The Hanes on the other hand seemed to go to pieces and could not stop the sudden attack of their opponents who were rushing the net in fine style and outplaying them in all phases of the game. Thus the losers staged a splendid rally and won from the champions a love set Hane Rally.

The final set was a repetition of the initial playing of the match. The Hanes rallied and tightened up on their playing, while Allen and Thomas slumped in their former style of play, always on the defensive and allowing the Hanes to rush the net. The services of the winners were working in splendid fashion in the final set and the two brothers came through victorious in the final and deciding set with a score of 6-2.

With the completion of yesterday's championship match, tennis activities proper for this season were brought to a close. Another club and American Legion match has been hinted of and may be played, but, aside from this, nothing more in the way of tournaments or championships will be played. Playing, however, will continue throughout September and a few enthusiastic netters will probably stay out on the courts until the first snowfall.

COLUMBUS PANHANDLES WIN FARGE IN BASEBALL

Jackman Won't Twirl When Personal Shots Are Fired.

AND—WELL, IT'S A SHAME WHAT TAKES PLACE THEN

Score of Twenty to Two Enough To Tell Story of a Moax Game.

[BY F. L. KRANER.]

The patience of the Marion Daily Stars at hearing personal remarks, directed by a comparatively small number attending the games for the express purpose of knocking, came to an end in the fourth inning with the Columbus Panhandles, Sunday afternoon, and what promised to be a good contest and hard battle was turned into a farce, Columbus winning by a score of twenty to two.

The only shame was that so many loyal fans had to suffer such a contest, but the local players concluded that the local players were more ready to surrender their baseball admission than those who were doing the knocking. Jackman, who was pitching for the locals, declined to work after the fourth inning because of the attitude of some fans who look delight in addressing personal remarks to the local players and umpire and then the entire team lost interest.

Geller was sent to the mound, although he was not in pitching form, and after two innings another switch was made which brought Uhl to the hill and found several of the locals playing foreign positions. When Jackman retired from the game the score was three to two in favor of the visitors. Seven runs were added during the two innings Geller served the butters and ten more were made in the next two rounds off Uhl. Most any blow was a hit and the locals played in such a discouraged way that some ordinary singles went for extra bases, three doubles, two triples and a homer being made in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings. In addition to sixteen hits credited to the visitors, they were given eleven passes to the initial sack and the locals made seven errors. Catchers by Dagenfield and Gauke were the only features.

The Postoria team is slated to be here next Sunday and for two games on Labor day and the locals expect to redeem for the good fans providing the opposition rooters or knockers do not become personal in their remarks or can see their way clear to travel away or remain away from the game.

Tagging the Bases.

Jess Barnes held the Cubs to five hits and the Giants added another victory to their string.

George Gibson sent young Johnny Morrison against the Dodgers and succeeded in breaking Pittsburgh's losing streak. Three hits were all Uncle Robby's boys could garner over the youthful Pirate hurler. 45,000 fans saw the two National League games in New York, Sunday.

John Collins' timely single in the eleventh inning gave the Red Sox a game at Chicago.

Young King Cole shovelled the Yankees into the discard Sunday and they left ground to Cleveland. Ruth got three-two-baggers.

Joe Wood's batting beat Washington, a double sending in two runs and scored the third and winning tally with a homer.

The Browns jumped all over Hasty, the A's young hurler, and hammered out a one-sided victory.

Pollaks Defeat Shovel.

The Pollak-Power team played in fine form Saturday afternoon and defeated the Steam Shovel team, leaders of the industrial league, by a score of three to two. It was a battle between the pitchers, with Disbennett having a fair share of the better of Hawkins, while both twirlers were accorded some brilliant support.

Disbennett pitched a fine game, allowing the hard-hitting Shovelites but three hits. He struck out two batters and walked but two, while only one misplay was made back of him. Hawkins pitched good ball, striking out nine batters and walking two, but Pollak-Powers found him for seven hits which they managed to work in back of a couple of misplays and send the league's touted star to defeat.

After who Shovelites tied the score in their half of the ninth, they went to pieces in the field and the Pollak-Powers drove in the deciding run before any were retired. Aside from the work of the pitchers, Taylor's fielding and the hitting of Gann featured.

Winning Streak Broken.

The winning streak of the Commercial-Huber team, of the industrial league, was broken Saturday afternoon by the Silk Mills. The latter team also breaking its losing streak. The garment weavers had to battle into the ninth inning to down their opponents by a count of five to four and their victory was mainly due to the pitching and hitting of "Lefty" Geller.

It was a hard-fought contest from start to finish. The Commercial-Huber team got away to a lead of two runs as a result of a pair of errors and pair of hits. After this inning Geller kept the hits well scattered and with perfect support went through with flying colors. Goodiecke's homer in the seventh put the Commercial to the good, but in the same round the Silk Mills scored twice. The Commercial tied it up in the ninth, but the Silk Mills again came back and won out in the last round.

Geller and Gassaway opposed each other on the firing line. Geller also helped his cause by hitting out three sacrifices. He allowed but nine hits while the Silk Mills found Gassaway for fourteen. Features of the game were the fast fielding of Lawrence and Lattimore.

MR. KING WRITES REGARDING ERROR

In Report of Speech Made by Him Here.

The following letter to the city editor of the Star, written from Honolulu, New York, under date of August 27, is self-explanatory.

City Editor Star—In your issue of the 24th inst., in writing the story of the public mass meeting held by the Erie shop crafts in the Grand theater on the night of the 18th, a very vital error was made and I am taking the liberty of respectfully requesting that correction be made, and given equal prominence in your paper as the story above referred to.

I was quoted as having said that "the open shop always has been an issue with the railroad shop employees, and the effort to beloud the issue is merely an effort to confuse the public."

What I really said was that "the open shop had never been a real issue so far as the railroad shop employees were concerned but had been raised by the employers to beloud the real issue."

Thanking you to make this correction, I am,

Yours very truly,
B. W. King,
